

Security Program Assessment

Evaluate your cybersecurity programs with a business-oriented framework that brings stakeholders across the organization to the table

Modern and evolving businesses are seeing a greater dependence on technology for their daily operations as well as their go to market strategies. Organizations are adapting quickly to pursue technology-driven opportunities, and this brings challenges and opportunities for Improvement across the entire business. EVOTEK's Security Program Assessment provides a holistic approach that provides cross-functional visibility and reduces silos to align a client's security with their business goals.

Business Challenge

The scope of tools available to IT, security teams, and businesses is expanding dramatically. The result is duplication, inefficiency, and poor communication. Taking a holistic approach identifies some of these inefficiencies and allows us to Improve alignment between business and security.

The Security Program Assessment is built to alleviate these challenges. By providing a current state, recommended future state, as well as a road map on how to get there, businesses will have a much clearer picture of where they should be allocating their resources. Once the road map is tied to the company's goals, security priorities and budgeting become much easier conversations, increasing alignment and speed.

A Proven Solution

The Security Program Assessment is critical for businesses to understand how to solidify their security posture and tie it to business requirements.

Our approach accelerates the time to value for your organization and allows for more efficient decisions and processes to be established. Our team has lived through the transition that our customers are facing - they started off siloed and worked through the merging of Security, business objectives, and IT. This experience gives them a more holistic understanding of the challenges that your enterprise is facing.

With roots across infrastructure, management, compliance, and security, we build new approaches that match your aspirations, focusing on the adjacencies across the business.

Solving Challenges for Video Streaming Company

A large video streaming company was plagued by misalignment on security practices. EVOTEK suggested and performed a Security Program Assessment, where 23 executives were interviewed to help drive alignment around the business direction. By tying the goals of the business to the security program, EVOTEK closed the gap allowing for correct budgeting, employee enablement, and business growth.

In addition, the Senior Director of security went from not having executive support to getting additional funding and headcount. They were then promoted to CISO within a year of the Security Program Assessment.